SMOKE FREE FIRE SAFE

"Putting out a cigarette the right way only takes seconds and could save your life, the lives of those you love and your home."

— Heidi Scarpelli
Vancouver Fire Marshal

Keep your family safe:

Don't allow anyone to smoke inside your home. If someone smokes outside, make sure that person:

- Is at least 25 feet from the building.
- Smokes away from things that burn, like barkdust and planters.
- Safely disposes of cigarette butts in a non-combustible container (preferably metal) with water or sand.

Please let management know if you see:

- People flicking cigarettes on the ground or putting them out in planters.
- Cigarette butts spilling out of containers.

Ask your landlord to adopt a no-smoking policy for the property.

- Information available at www.clark.wa.gov/public-health.

If loved ones use medical oxygen, make sure they don't ever smoke when using their oxygen.

SMOKE FREE FIRE SAFE

"Smoking continues to be the leading cause of home fire deaths - protect your home and family by smoking outside."

— Jon Dunaway, Clark County Fire Marshal

Your rental properties are an important investment. Why put everything at risk of fire?

MAKE YOUR RENTAL PROPERTIES SAFER:

- Put a no-smoking rule in your lease. Eight out of ten Washington renters want a smokefree place to live. Enforce your no-smoking policy as you would any other rule (such as no pets or quiet hours).
  - Find sample lease language at www.clark.wa.gov/public-health.
- If you are not ready to prohibit smoking on the property:
  - Designate an outdoor area far from barkdust and planters and at least 25 feet from entrances, doors, stairways, windows and air intake vents.
  - Provide a non-combustible container for disposal of cigarette butts. It should contain water or sand to completely extinguish cigarettes.
  - Add a clause to the lease requiring proper disposal of cigarettes.
- To educate your residents, download a SmokeFree/FireSafe Resident flyer at www.clark.wa.gov/public-health.
- If you would like help implementing a no-smoking policy for your rentals, contact Clark County Public Health, 360-397-8000.
