Garden-Grown Hops for Homebrewing

You can grow hops in your own backyard! An easy to grow perennial, hops are used in home brewing beer or as an attractive decorative addition to your garden landscape.

In this introductory workshop, you'll learn about site selection, how to start and care for the plants, and how to harvest and use them.

Join Greg Joyce of Homebrew Exchange, for a workshop on getting started growing hops in your backyard.

The workshop is free but advanced registration required at <http://bpt.me/2511464>.

Bring a lawn chair and your work clothes. We'll do some maintenance in the demo garden after the workshop.

This workshop is put on in conjunction with Clark County Environmental Services.
