Learn about Caregiver Resources

Although family members are a large portion of unpaid caregivers, many are not aware of community resources designed to assist them. Lexie Bartunek, Community Services Program coordinator with the Area Agency on Aging and Disabilities of Southwest Washington, will talk about the programs and services available in our area.

Bartunek has worked with the agency since 2006, first connecting people to services and resources in the community and now coordinating the Family Caregiver Support and Senior Health and Wellness programs. And she has experience as a caregiver for her own aging family members.
