Learn about C-TRAN services

The ability to travel whenever we want is a freedom that most of us enjoy. When driving is no longer an option, older adults need an alternative way to get around, to maintain their independence and continue their daily routines. Learn about the services offered by C-TRAN.

Shawn Donaghy, C-TRAN's chief executive officer, will discuss the agency's current services and programs, the challenges transit providers face, and highlight possible ways to increase both the safety and mobility of older people who use their services.
