Vancouver School District levy presentation – Dr. Steve Webb

Dr. Webb presented a 3-minute video after a short introduction. He said one of the most impressive accomplishments they have made is their increased percentage of on-time graduations from 64% to 80%. He stated that high school graduates will earn more than $350,000 more in their lifetimes than non-graduates.

The Vancouver levy has passed every year it has been taken to voters since 1964. That is 51 years of continuous support.

The levy is a Maintenance and Operations (M&O) levy and supports current level of educational programs and services. It is a replacement level and will not fund much needed capital facility improvements. There might be a capital facilities bond measure request coming to voters in 2017 to respond to facility needs at Truman, Peter S. Ogden, King elementary and other south-end schools.

If the M&O levy does not pass, $45.2M out of a $250M budget will be lost – impacting possibly 100 teachers and significant reductions in programs.

Dr. Webb presented a fact pamphlet that was handed out to everyone. He gave an explanation of the built-in inflationary amount. They are also increasing their Ending Fund Balance from 4% to be able to respond to emergent needs and unfunded mandates. The school district has grown about 1% annually over the past 3 years.

One of the challenges they face is a state mandate for class sizes in K-3 lowering from a ratio of 24 to 1 to 20-21 to 1. That number is even lower for poverty-impacted schools at 18-19 to 1. Currently, 15 out of 21 elementary schools meet 18-19 to 1 ratio.

Some more interesting facts:

- Number of languages spoken in Vancouver schools: More than 80!
- English is a second language for 12.5% of students
- 20% of the students have a language other than English as their main communication in their home
- 57% of the students receive free or reduced cost meals

For more information, see the website at www.vansd.org or call Dr. Weber at the school at 360-313-3000.

Clark County GIS presentation – Bob Pool

Bob went through a PowerPoint presentation on the history of the Clark County's GIS department:

- 1804 – Lewis & Clark Expedition
- 1849 – Donation Land Claims
- 1894 – Map of Clarke County created – copy in hearing room on 6th floor of PSC building
- 1990 – GIS replaced traditional mapping in Clark County
- 2015 – GIS moved to office of CIO (Chief Information Officer)

GIS is a regional resource with many partners. Their ultimate goal is to have one single one-stop shopping source of mapping information to provide users what we know about a specific location or area. School sub-districts, garbage collection days, Clark Public Utilities lighting districts, septic inspections and even when the streets were last swept are included in available information. Roads and addressing of new construction projects are entered within a week of recording the plats.

Bob then presented a Maps Online system demonstration. He walked the group through a parks display, demonstrating the tools that are available in the system, focusing on the “layers” feature. A key point that he showed us is the “i” button – when it is clicked/activated, that will be the active layer shown on the map that you are viewing.

Aerial photography is renewed every 2 years and the photos are archived to show development. A newer feature is that the archived historical aerial layers are now available in Maps Online in the menu at the top right hand side. Building footprints are now shown and “shadowed” on current property. The future aerials will show any new building footprints in red.

The Assessors Office takes the photos of the buildings on the properties and these are typically updated on a six year cycle.

A question regarding floating homes (since they don’t own the property beneath them, but are a residence that pays taxes) was asked. Bob showed that they are registered in the system (as are condos and secondary mobile homes and “granny flats”). They show up as multiple tax accounts that all have individual detailed information.

There are 20 people in the GIS department:

- 5 Land Records
- 6 Programmers
- 5 Map Creators
- 4 Coordinators/Specialists

There is a GIS Day in November and our GIS department does outreach presentations at the local schools.

The annually updated County Road Atlas is now available at the Map Store on the 2nd floor of the PSC building. Cost is $22.

If you have further questions, you can contact Bob directly at bob.pool@clark.wa.gov or visit at the Map Store on the 2nd floor of the PSC building.

- Discussion on a bridge wash-out that was on private property in the La Center area. This is a private bridge leading to a HOA neighborhood. Questions on how they would be able to obtain assistance with the bridge restoration. With this being a private bridge on a private road, the property owners and HOA are responsible for maintenance and replacement. One of the neighborhood leaders referred them to Grayhawk, a large HOA that is well organized that may have information and resources for help with the path forward. Grayhawk's website with contact information is <http://greyhawkridgehoa.org/page12.html>.
